VESPERS
Friday, 10 February 2017, 8 p.m.
Walla Walla University Church
Welcome!

We are pleased that you have chosen to join us this evening. Our concert coincides with the annual music festival that we hold for high school students, alternating between a band festival and a choir and orchestra festival. This year we welcome to our campus students who have come to participate in the Walla Walla University Honor Band Festival under the direction of Brandon Beck. We will have the privilege of listening to our guest musicians perform for us in this sanctuary during the University Church service at 11:30 a.m. on Sabbath, February 11, and again in the afternoon for a special concert at 4 p.m.

The ensembles heard this evening include not only music majors and minors, but also talented student musicians majoring in other disciplines who have chosen to participate in music making at the university. Ensemble possibilities include chamber music coached by Lyn Ritz, and in addition to the large ensembles on this program, the Steel Band directed by Brandon Beck, and the Big Band. The Department of Music collaborates closely with the University Church, and the congregational hymns prior to the orchestra’s performance will be led by Professor Kraig Scott who serves as minister of music at the University Church along with his responsibilities as a music faculty member.

It is our mission that each student will be inspired to further enrich the lives of others with the knowledge, expertise, and sensitivity gained from studying music at Walla Walla University. We hope that you will be blessed by tonight’s concert and by future musical experiences on our campus.
